

Natures Organics Case Study

In 1981 Natures Organics company was founded and launched. Natures Organics was then and is now Australia's genuine pioneer in developing 'close to nature' and environmentally responsible formulations. It's simple; at Nature's Organics, we believe in creating environmentally responsible products of the best possible quality.

We not only want to provide high-quality products for Australian families, we want to help them be an active part of a changing culture around waste, and a shift to more natural and environmentally responsible alternatives.

Brief

Natures Organics growth has been exceptional over many years. They rely on Bowen Storage to work with them in providing efficient storage solutions to meet their continual expansion.

With more expansion plans afoot, they requested a review and design of additional storage capacity that allowed them to efficiently manage their inventory.

Solution

Our team of storage experts identified where further enhancements and improvements could be achieved as part of the expansion and effective inventory management of palletised goods. The expansion design included:

- Drive-In pallet racking
- Raised storage areas
- Safety gates and railing
- Safety Auditing and repairs

Results

The end result is a highly efficient warehouse system utilising high level space to the ceiling, increasing available storage capacity and reducing unused floor space.

The project was delivered on time and aligned to Natures Organics' requirements.
